National Futures Association registration advances planned U.S. launch of ROLR prediction markets platform through Crypto.com FCM infrastructure

Introducing broker operations will be guaranteed by Crypto.com FCM

Las Vegas, NV, June 26, 2026 — High Roller Technologies, Inc. ("High Roller" or the "Company") (NYSE: ROLR), a publicly traded online gaming and prediction markets company, today announced that its wholly owned subsidiary, ROLR US LLC, has been approved as a member of the National Futures Association ("NFA") and registered as an introducing broker under a guarantee agreement with OG Markets US, Inc. (formerly known as Foris DAX Markets, Inc.) ("OG"), doing business as Crypto.com FCM.

"This approval completes one of the key regulatory steps in the development of our U.S. prediction markets business and moves us significantly closer to launching the ROLR platform," said Seth Young, Chief Executive Officer of High Roller Technologies. "Becoming an NFA Member and registered introducing broker reflects the substantial work completed by our team and our partners to build the compliance, technology and operating infrastructure required to participate in the federally regulated U.S. derivatives market.

"Our partnership with Crypto.com provides ROLR with access to established exchange, clearing and futures commission merchant infrastructure, while allowing High Roller to focus on delivering a differentiated consumer experience, building the ROLR brand and executing our customer-acquisition strategy. With this regulatory milestone completed, we are now focused on the final integration, testing and operational elements ahead of our target launch date," added Young.
